Investigation Recording

Investigator: Hello. Is this Kidney Transplant, the PLA 303rd Hospital?

Nurse: Yes, yes.

Investigator: Here's my situation: my family member needs a kidney transplant. We called in April. But it was during the pandemic. I'd like to ask about how we should come to the hospital, or which doctor we should see, and what procedure we should follow. Would you tell me that?

Nurse: You come over first to sign up, to do type matching.

Investigator: Oh, will any day of the week be okay?

Nurse: Yes, Monday, Wednesday or Friday.

Investigator: Oh, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Which director should I register for?

Nurse: Director Dong.

Investigator: Oh, Director Dong. It's that Dong JiangHui, isn't it? Then I'd like to ask, if my type matching goes smoothly, if everything goes smoothly, how long do we need to wait before surgery? Director Dong is the one who does the most, isn't he? The best in this hospital, right?

Nurse: You just come over and register for him.

Investigator: Oh, okay. How much will it cost? I need to have a budget, I need some time for that. How much money should we plan on?

Nurse: RMB 200K to 300K (Yuan)

Investigator: 200K to 300K, is that the total? Or just for the early stage payment?

Nurse: It's for early stage. You need to prepare 200K to 300K.

Investigator: Oh, okay. Did you do the transplants during the pandemic this year? We came at the time too.

Nurse: PCR is required for hospitalization.

Investigator: I was asking if the hospital was doing the operations during the pandemic?

Nurse: Right, right, right.

Investigator: Oh, okay. I want to ask if we come by, we need to do PCR test, is that right?

Nurse: Yes. You can do it where you are. Once you have done it, bring the result here for hospitalization. It's valid for 15 days.

Investigator: Oh, okay. How many cases did Director Dong do this year? Up to now, it's September now.

Nurse: I can't tell you these statistics. I don't know it either, not sure about the numbers. It is the number for our department.

Investigator: Oh. The more cases one does, the better the expertise he has, right! I am just thinking, that now...

Nurse: You just come over to sign up on the waiting list.

Investigator: Okay. How many kidney transplant patients are there now in the hospital? Are there many on the waiting list?

Nurse: Currently there are a few dozen.

Investigator: A few dozen. How many have been done this month?

Nurse: There are cases every month. But it is hard to say.

Investigator: Oh, every month, hard to say. OK. I am just wondering...aren't you a military hospital? A military hospital has more kidney sources, is that right? Plenty of kidney sources, right? Hello?

Nurse: This is unknown, nobody knows.

Investigator: Ah, I am just thinking, a military hospital...since I trust military hospital more, you know? It must be better in all aspects than a civilian one! That's why I am thinking...

Nurse: That's not necessarily true.

Investigator: Not necessarily true?

Nurse: 0000

Investigator: I am thinking, there must be more kidney sources than civilian hospitals, right?

Nurse: Not necessarily true. I can only tell you it is hard to say.

Investigator: Ah, okay. So currently only Director Dong is doing it, right? So, no matter which day I come to register, he is going to do it, right?

Nurse: We'll talk about the surgery later.

Investigator: Health Insurance can be used, it can be used within the province, right?

Nurse: Yes, yes. Out-of-province is okay too.

Investigator: Oh, out-of-Province is okay too.

Nurse: We'll talk about it when you come, you can ask the doctor the details, okay?

Investigator: Okay, then thank you.

Nurse: sure.

Investigator: Bye.
