Investigation Recording

Nurse: Hello!

Investigator: Hello! Hello, is it the Third Hospital of Hebei Province Medical University? Is it the hepatobiliary surgery ward?

Nurse: Yes.

Investigator: Hello!

Nurse: How can I help you?

Investigator: Hello, I'm a patient's family member. I want to ask which doctor is available?

Nurse: The doctor on duty is doing a surgery. There's an emergency surgery.

Investigator: When will he finish, approximately?

Nurse: I can't say for sure. I don't know how this surgery is going!

Investigator: Then I would like to ask, which director leads the team to perform this surgery?

Nurse: Our President Dou.

Investigator: Oh, it is President Dou. How can I make an appointment with him?

Nurse: He is available on Mondays. If you want to ask him for more information, you can come to the hepatobiliary surgery department on Monday to see him.

Investigator: Now, can you tell me roughly how many surgeries can be performed in your hospital? Are there many patients who are admitted to your hospital for liver transplantation?

Nurse: There are quite a lot now.

Investigator: How many cases do you have now?

Nurse: Do you mean in the department now?

Investigator: Yes, yes.

Nurse: In the ward now?

Investigator: Yes, yes.

Nurse: About six or seven.

Investigator: That means I will feel relieved if you can do it within this month.

Nurse: Yes.

Investigator: One month? More than six or seven in one month, right?

Nurse: Anyway, there are quite a lot recently, quite a few can be done a week.

Investigator: How many can be done? I will make a decision based on that.

Nurse: It depends, sometimes more, sometimes less. There are special people who do liver transplants, and our ward is only responsible for nursing.

Investigator: OK, I understand.
